Ercros has participated in the VI Technical Vocational Training Conferences organized by the Institut La Romànica from Barberà del Vallès, conferences that aim to explain to students the operation of companies in the area, what are the job offers of the sector and which job profiles are most in demand.

Àngel Domínguez, head of industrial relations at the Ercros factory in Cerdanyola, was in charge of participating in these days, in which different local chemical, pharmaceutical and cosmetic industries took part.

After finishing his presentation, Àngel Domínguez presented the institute with a fireproof blanket, a mandatory safety element in chemistry laboratories, which allows any small fire to be extinguished in seconds.
