

Ercros certifies its information security management

Ercros has certified its information security management and has obtained the international ISO 27001:2022 seal, awarded by Applus+. This certification guarantees the company's commitment to data protection and information security for its customers, suppliers, workers and partners, and provides them with a secure and reliable environment.

Obtaining this seal is a recognition of Ercros' efforts to implement and maintain an information security management system (ISMS) that complies with the highest international standards.

ISO 27001 covers a wide range of security controls, including risk management, data protection, and business continuity. By obtaining this certification, Ercros demonstrates its ability to identify, manage and mitigate information security risks effectively.
