

Six Industrial Chemistry students begin their internships at the Tarragona complex of Ercros

The students, together with the director and the head of training of the CIT

Six students of the advanced vocational training program in Industrial Chemistry at the Comte de Rius Institute have begun their internship period at the Tarragona Industrial Complex (CIT) of Ercros.

The director of the CIT, Joan Miquel Capdevila, together with Silvia Padró, training technician of the CIT, welcomed them and the director made a presentation of the three factories that make up the complex; at the end of the visit they were greeted by the head of industrial relations, Mario Lorenzo.

The students then completed part of the initial training in the departments of human resources, prevention, health service, environment and quality. Each student has joined its factory where they will continue their training.
